Making the Best Better

Sixteen Hundred 4-H Graduate Studies

By Jan Scholl

Dr. Jan Scholl has located sixteen hundred graduate studies about the 4-H youth program, spanning the last century from 1911 to 2004.

For each study, the author, title, institution, degree, and date are provided along with information outlining how abstracts and the actual study may be found. A visual graph of the studies by year, a brief analysis of the type of studies, and a bibliography of other publications about 4-H graduate research is included.

This book is in its second edition. Legislators, librarians, administrators, youth development practitioners, graduate studies, and their advisors, purchased first edition copies. This second edition includes 60 additional studies found since the first edition was published.

Jan Scholl is an associate professor and 4-H curriculum development specialist at Penn State University. She has been involved in 4-H work in Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, and Pennsylvania and developed over 40 individual 4-H projects and motion pictures. This work is the result of six years of study and was her contribution to the 4-H centennial. It has continued because of the great need to apply research findings to youth development work.

"Making the Best Better: Sixteen Hundred 4-H Graduate Studies," in its revised and updated second edition, is now available.

The hard cover volume, 300 pages in length, lists thesis studies from 1911 through July 2004 by year, author, and university. Over 137 U.S. and international institutions are represented with topics ranging from life skills, adolescent development, leadership, and competition. You won't want to miss this guide if you are a graduate student, youth development educator, or administrator. Libraries and youth organizations other than 4-H will want copies as well.
